

ASSOCIATION LIBRARY

Additions to the library in 2012 have included photographs of the bell at St Margaret's chapel and almshouses, Glastonbury, during its recent restoration, taken and donated by Brian Mountjoy, a few peal compositions and other papers from the late Joseph Dyke, a collection of ringing records and other papers from the late George Hawkins, an unpublished article, 'Summoned by bells,' by L.W. & D.M. Harford, and a handsome new book, The Thistle clockmakers of Somerset, 1765-1899, by Nial and Deborah Woodford of Stogursey.

The library is kept in the clock room at St Mary's, Bridgwater, and remains open to personal callers by appointment with me, most conveniently on Monday practice nights, and to postal, telephone and e-mail enquiries at any time. The catalogue, updated annually, is on the Association website, and I can supply paper copies of it on receipt of a stamped addressed envelope.
